JANESVILLE, FRIDAY, JUNE 13.

PENSION LEGISLATION.

The pension bill which was agreed to by the committee and passed the house will probably become a law, and for a time settle the pension question so far as a general law is concerned. The bill, in substance, "gives a pension of not less than $6 a month and not more than $12 to every honorably discharged soldier suffering from mental or physical disability of a permanent character, not the result of his own vicious habits, which makes him unable to earn his own support. The bill also provides for the pension of dependent parents and of widows and children."

The bill is an improvement on the original Morrill bill which gave a pension of $8 a month to everybody who reached the age of 62 and served in the civil war, no matter whether he is worth five dollars or five millions. There was wonderful extravagance in this bill, besides there was no sort of reason why a person of wealth should receive eight dollars a month because he served in the war. The principle which should govern a general pension bill, is that of liberality to the needy and deserving. There are some objections to the service pensions urged by many of the leaders among the veterans, although all the objections do not seem to be well taken. The scheme which seems to have the greater justice in it, is that of giving all veterans who arrive at the age of 60 years and are dependent on hard labor for a living, a pension of say $12 a month during their life time. There are sense and justice in such a measure as this, and an applicant would not be forced to make oath that he was a pauper before he could establish a claim to a pension.

There is much difficulty in framing a pension measure. There are so many conflicting ideas as to what a pension law should be, that no bill will satisfy all interested. The principle which should govern the enactment of a pension law is that of justice to the soldier, but what constitutes justice in a case of that kind is a difficult question to settle even among the veterans. This is one of the many difficulties with which this pension business is constantly beset.

WHAT DOES REVISION MEAN?

The McKinley tariff bill has struck a snag in the senate. A halt has been called, and there seems to be a disposition to propose some of the amendments which would be in keeping with the promises made by the republican national conventions in 1884 and 1888. Among the republican senators who favor a revision of the tariff in the lines proposed by these conventions and suggested from time to time by Presidents Garfield and Arthur, are Allison and Plumb. The latter calls them "chronic grumblers on the tariff question." Why does that paper call them such? They believe in the principle of republican protection, and their political faith has always rested upon that principle. They would have been set down as chronic knickers or chronic grumblers.

There are some features of the McKinley bill on which loyal republicans may differ. No tariff bill will satisfy all interests, because different interests demand different duties. The proposition of the McKinley committee to place a duty of 15 per cent on hides, was a serious mistake. It was directly against the interests of the people. Cattle raisers or cattle barons wanted the duty for their own benefit. Nobody else would or could be benefited. It is a question whether the duty on hides should be increased. For over one hundred years they have been trying to grow flax for the fiber in this country, and experience shows that it cannot be done. There has been a duty of 20 cents a bushel on flax seed, and still that protection has not induced the farmers to raise flax for the seed. The climate or the soil of this country seems to be against the successful growing of flax for the fiber. Why then, impose a duty on linen goods? Linen dealers say they will have to pay more for their linen goods, should the linen clause be allowed to stand, and they will be forced to protect themselves from loss, to charge additional prices to the retail purchaser. How is the purchaser to be compensated for this advance? Not by the increase in the manufacture of linen in this country, for the time will probably never come when in this branch of industry a tariff will drive out foreign linen made from foreign fiber. A republican merchant tells the Gazette that this proposed duty on linen, will cause much dissatisfaction among the purchasers of linen for the reasons we have named, and a Chicago merchant, also a republican, says:

"While the manufacturer of American linen will, no doubt, be greatly encouraged by the new and higher tariff duties imposed by the McKinley bill, it will probably be some time before the home product can successfully compete with foreign goods of the same kind. As it is, we do not even grow seed enough for our own consumption, leaving the production of fiber out of the account altogether. And so long as we are compelled to import seed for our own use there will be less inducement to attempt less cultivation of fiber."

There are some of the objections to the higher duties proposed by the McKinley bill, and the senate in its soberness should consider the meaning of tariff revision in accordance with the pledge of the republican party. It certainly was not the intention of the leaders to revive on a higher key when the people were calling for some modifications of the tariff schedule. There are a few features of the McKinley bill which are objectionable to a great many republicans, and these are they which Senator Allison and Plumb want modified in order to meet the spirit of republican wisdom and progress.

MONTANA SETTLERS FLEEING FROM THEIR HOMES.

Indians Fire Upon a Settler's House—Arms and Ammunition Sent to Miles City.

ROSEBUD, Mont., June 13.—The family of L. S. Ginter, who were driven from home by the Northern Cheyennes, arrived here this morning in a state of fright which has almost driven them to insanity. They were peaceable settlers who were not aware that the savages were near them. Just at daylight Wednesday six or eight men rode up to their cabin in a gallop, fired several shots into it, and galloped away again, yelling like demons the while. They made no attempt to steal or burn anything and did not stop to discover whether they had killed anybody. None of the family was injured, but fearing a return of the Indians they gathered together such portable things they could carry in a farm wagon and left the ranch as hastily as possible.

Many other settlers have left their homes, and they will not return until they have military protection. The posse of soldiers which left Miles City last night encountered a band of Cheyennes thirteen miles south of here this morning and exchanged several shots with them. Residents of this section of Montana are dispirited in their condemnation of the Government. They say it is the duty of the Government to protect the settlers from the Cheyennes by removing them from their homes.

Here is over 167 million dollars for the special benefit of the soldier. No other country on earth can match this generosity.

When Mr. Cleveland made a speech to the actors recently, he said something which drew from the Rochester Post-Express, of New York, a democratic newspaper, the following pleasant remark: "Such a speech as this to such an audience is of one great advantage at least. It affords to the actors an opportunity to study from nature—from the nude, so to speak—the personal hypocrisies and political phrasies. It was a splendid chance for the comedians."

Mr. W. H. Timlin, a prominent democratic lawyer of Milwaukee, has written a long article in issue of the Bennett law for the Chicago Herald. It gives the democratic law warning that if they oppose the law in their convention it will cost them humiliation and defeat.

Judge Cate, one of the best known democratic lawyers in the state, says he is not and will not be a candidate for governor. He doesn't believe in running for governor on an issue that will certainly carry him down to defeat.

NEW PENSIONS ARE NOW BEING ISSUED AT THE RATE OF EIGHT HUNDRED A DAY.

A WONDERFUL CRAFT.

What the New Torpedo Boat Dushung Is Capable of Doing.

The new torpedo boat Dushung is attracting great attention, says a Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette. It turns out that there is no faster boat in the world for an hour's run. She can make twenty-eight miles for an hour without the slightest difficulty and without any undue use of machinery, and could continue this hour after hour except for the impossibility of the small screw which she carries performing the necessary work. She can run twenty-five miles an hour without regard to distance. The Dushung is 128 feet long, 15 feet beam at the widest part, and 9 feet deep. Without her load of torpedoes and ammunition she is about 5 feet out of water at her bow and 2 at the stern. Her draft when on an even keel is 4 and a half feet. The power of her two engines is tremendous. They are quadruple expansion engines and each run an independent screw.

The boat can be stopped and started astern inside of three times her length when running at high speed. She can spin around rapidly without moving ahead, and so turn within her length. She can run around at high speed in a circle the diameter of which is only a few times her length. In action the expectation is that she can run at high speed to within 200 or 300 yards of a vessel, discharge a torpedo and proceed on its way. These latter are themselves propelled in their flight by attached machinery.

The full crew is eighteen. The officers are: Lieut. C. McRae Winslow, Ensign William Truxton, and Assistant Engineer R. E. Ryan. The machinery makes very little noise, and there is little tremor to the boat.

Hypnotism in England. A curious exhibition of hypnotism was lately given in Leeds before an audience of men by Dr. Bramwell, of Goolse. Teeth were drawn and other painful operations performed without the least consciousness on the part of the patients who had been hypnotized by Dr. Bramwell. More curious still, a girl was put to sleep by suggestion, through a letter being shown her by a dentist, the letter having been written by Dr. Bramwell, and containing a command that she should go to sleep at once, by order of Dr. Bramwell, and obey Dr. Turner's commands. On reading the note the girl went off at once into the hypnotic sleep, and had sixteen stumps of teeth extracted.

SENATORS COME HIGH.

In Boston They Are Said to Be Quoted at $100,000 Apiece.

Boston, Mass., June 13.—When the hearing regarding the alleged corrupt practices of the West End Street Railway company in getting its elevated road bill through the Legislature was resumed, Frank E. Sanderson testified that Senator Fessenden had told him that for $100,000 he could furnish ten Senators, including himself, to vote in favor of granting a charter to the People's Elevated railroad company.

Witness arranged a meeting between Senator Fessenden and the financial men of the company. Lewis P. Hagar, who testified that he was hired to look after the Senate for the People's Company, said that all he had ever heard about the $100,000 was that Sanderson told him that the company would put up a forfeit of $200,000 as a guarantee of good faith. John C. Watson testified that he was at the State House just after several of the elevated road petitions had been rejected and heard Sanderson say: "D—d them, I'll stop every elevated road bill if we can't have ours."

Curious Coincidences. The census of the village of Elm Grove, Wis., shows curious coincidences. The total population is 292; one-half, or 296, are males, and 296 females. Of the males, 118, or one-half, are 21 years old and upwards, while the rest are minors. Of the females, the same thing holds good, the dividing age being twenty years. Of the colored population, half are males and half females, and half are adults, and half minors.

SAD END OF LADY AUSTIN. Forced to Flee from Her Husband She Dies in an Indianapolis Hospital.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 13.—Kathleen R. Bruce died in a hospital in this city last night. She was the wife of Edward Austin, a baron of Aberdeen, Scotland. She had been mistreated by her husband until she ran away, with a babe in her arms, and came to America, finding work in a private family in this city, where she was found by a reporter. After the publication of the story the girl went to Chicago with the family with whom she was living. Six weeks ago she returned to Indianapolis and was taken sick, and never recovered. She requested that her body be placed in a vault until her recent husband in Scotland had been notified.

WAS O'CONNOR A GIRL? The Suicide of J. A. Vincent, a Chicagoan, Awakens Peculiar Suspicions.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 13.—J. A. Vincent, a chemist and part owner of the Gardner chemical works on Indiana avenue, Chicago, came to this city a few days ago with a person known as Charlie O'Connor, on a visit. Vincent's companion was of slight build, with a black curly hair, blue eyes, and a sweet feminine voice. Yesterday O'Connor went to his home in Allegheny, Pa., and after Vincent committed suicide by jumping into the lake. He left a letter saying that he had killed himself because Charlie O'Connor had gone back on him. His friends insist that O'Connor was a girl.

Intoxication in the Austrian Army.

The military commission of the Austrian army have established a law that the offense of intoxication should be punished the first time by a public reprimand. The second offense by several days' imprisonment in the guard house. The third offense is evidence that the victim is suffering from a chronic disease, and he is placed under constant surveillance. His pay is taken out of his hands and every means used to prevent him from getting money to secure spirits.

False Teeth Not a New Idea. A Roman doctor has discovered in many of the skulls in different Etruscan tombs, as well as in those deposited in the various museums, interesting specimens of ancient dentistry work and artificial teeth. The false teeth were in most cases carved from those of some large animal, and in many instances were fastened to the natural ones by gold bands. The skulls examined date as far back as six centuries before Christ, which proves that dentistry is not a modern art.

Go Down South Main

To Clark street, and you are at first entrance to "Riverview" from Main. A few weeks later you can enter this charming addition through CARRINGTON STREET (a new street we are about to open just south of Mr. Parker's house) which will perhaps be the easiest entrance to "Riverview." Fourteen rods farther down Main street you will soon find Valley street all marked, and this, too, will be an easy and delightful drive to Riverview. You all know the next entrance is through Sharon and Dixon streets. This will make four good streets from Main to Riverview Park. In these drives you will have the charm of hill and dale, of groves and of glen. It is a conceded fact that no portion of this city is so delightfully situated. Lots in the addition no longer seek buyers, but buyers seek the lots.
